

Step 1

Learning to learn

Test and exams can be daunting if your child does not learn the way his/her brain is wired - do they need to learn in a more visual way than another sibling, or do they need to hear the info more in order to learn faster? We are all unique!

Visual learning

Visual learners tend to use more pictures when learning because that is their brain's 'sensory language'. Make sure they watch the videos, remember each picture and print out the pdf to look at the mindmap again.

Auditory learning

Auditory learners use listening as an effective method of learning. Make sure they listen to our videos over and over until the information is stored in their working memory.

Visual learning

Visual learners tend to use more pictures when learning because that is their brain's 'sensory language'. Make sure they watch the videos, remember each picture and print out the pdf to look at the mindmap again.

Auditory

Auditory learners learn by listening. They often repeat information to themselves. They may listen to our videos over and over until the information is stored in their working memory.
